High Maturity Concepts

Description

Official ISACA course offered by the SIE CENTER (Software Industry Excellence Center).

Find out how high maturity organizations build competitive advantage through the ability to make data-driven decisions and continuous improvement.

CMMI is a collection of both government and industry best practices that provide guidance for product development, service delivery, vendor management, and personnel management. CMMI focuses on activities that provide high value to the business, is used systematically to improve process capability, and supports doing, managing, facilitating, and improving the work of organizations.

The course is composed of lectures and class exercises with time allotted for participant questions and discussion. After attending this course, the participants will be able to understand the application of the CMMI model in their organizations and its influence on continuous improvement.

The course is a requirement to participate in the CMMI evaluation teams of high maturity levels 4 and 5, and to be able to attend the CMMI Lead Appraiser and CMMI Instructor training.

For the successful approval of the course, requires that students actively participate throughout the duration of the course without missing any class time, and do class exercises.
